Chukar Cherries contributes Pacific Northwest flare to weddings

by Bend Weekly News Sources

Chukar Cherries, Washington Stateâ€™s year round cherry company, is officially announcing the newest addition to the Chukar product line, Wedding Favors. The newly launched wedding collection is designed to reflect the Pacific Northwest for the Bride & Groom with an affinity for the regionâ€™s unique bounty and flavor.Wedding Favors are a new venture for Chukar Cherries. Pam Montgomery, Chukar Cherries owner and founder, married her longtime love on the Oregon Coast back in 2005. â€œMy own wedding gave me the idea to create favors that reflect my region and values,â€• said Montgomery. â€œWe hope that Brides will be able to add that extra personal touch to their big day with our favors.â€• The Wedding Favors are available in four flavors: Dark Chocolate Cabernet Cherries, Milk Chocolate Honey Pecans, Milk Chocolate Bing Cherries, and White Chocolate Blueberries. The confections are wrapped in a cream box personalized with delicate satin ribbon, packed 48 individual boxes per case and priced at $144 with customization an option. In addition to the new Wedding Favors, Chukarâ€™s award-winning collection of boutique cherry fare make unique gifts for the Bride & Groom to give to bridesmaids, parents, groomsmen, and reception guests.Chukar Cherries was founded by Pam Montgomery on her familyâ€™s cherry orchard over 18 years ago. Located in Washington State, Chukar Cherries produces a wide array of pure food gifts that exemplify the regional bounty and natural flavors of the Pacific Northwest. All products are 100% Natural and Kosher KOF-K certified. Chukar Cherries has three retail locations in Washington; Pike Place Market; Seattle, Prosser Headquarters; Prosser and Tri City Airport Gift Shop; Pasco.