

Report: Detroit most dangerous city

by UPI

WASHINGTON -- Mission Viejo, Calif., ranked the safest and Detroit the most dangerous in a new list of city crime rankings published by CQ Press. The 14th annual "City Crime Rankings: Crime in Metropolitan America" is based on FBI statistics for the year, said CQ, a branch of Congressional Quarterly. CQ examined 378 cities with at least 75,000 residents and based its rankings on per-capita rates for auto theft, burglary, homicide, rape, robbery and aggravated assault. The five safest cities were ranked as Mission Viejo; Clarkstown, N.Y.; Brick Township, N.J.; Amherst, N.Y., and Sugar Land, Texas. CQ's five most dangerous cities were Detroit, St. Louis; Flint, Mich.; Oakland, Calif., and Camden, N.J.
