

Message suggests missing wife had affair

by UPI

BOLINGBROOK, Ill. -- The attorney for Drew Peterson, an ex-Illinois cop suspected in the disappearance of his wife, says a cellular text message suggests she was having an affair. The two-sentence message read in part, "You my love are the hottest little (expletive) in the world," and continues to thank the recipient for various sexual acts, the Chicago Tribune said Thursday. The time stamp on the message is 9:47 a.m. Sept. 20, 2007. Peterson's attorney Joel Brodsky says the message was discovered on a phone also used by the Drew's son and adds fuel to speculation Stacy Peterson may have had an affair with another man. Brodsky claims his client did not send the message and attempted to downplay allegations the affair rumors indicated a motive, the Joliet (Ill.) Herald News reported Thursday. "You can have all the motives you want -- motives don't make you guilty," he said. Police suspect Peterson, 53, in the Oct. 27 disappearance of his 23-year-old wife.

Copyright © 2007, by United Press International. All Rights Reserved.

Message suggests missing wife had affair by UPI