by UPI

FORT WORTH - Police in Fort Worth, Texas, said two men thought to be white supremacists were arrested in the shootings of a man and woman, both black. Hospital officials said the two victims were in critical condition, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported Tuesday. Fort Worth police Lt. Joe Sparrow told a Fort Worth television station the suspects were believed to be members of a white supremacist group, the newspaper reported. The shootings occurred on Martin Luther King Jr. Day, but police said it was unclear whether the national holiday or robbery was the motive.
