

Stacy Peterson allegedly sighted overseas

by UPI

CHICAGO - Drew Peterson's lawyer claims new photos snapped by a retired Australian police officer on vacation in Thailand may show Peterson's missing wife Stacy. Peterson's wife disappeared in October and he has been named as a suspect. Joel Brodsky, the lawyer, claims to have three new photographs of Stacy Peterson in Thailand taken when retired officer Tom Dellaca noticed a woman eating in a food court, the Chicago daily Southtown reported Sunday. Dellaca pretended to be taking photographs of his family to snap the shots, said Brodsky, adding that the family appears in the foreground, while the young woman is in the background, eating a sandwich. "Drew can't say it is her, but he can't say it's not," Brodsky said.
