

Texas pimp sentenced to four extra years

by UPI

ST. LOUIS - A federal judge in St. Louis has tacked on four years to the prison sentence a Texas pimp already is serving for running a prostitution ring. Brandon K. Hill, 29, of Dallas now faces about 18 1/2 years in prison after his sentencing in federal court, the St. Louis Post Dispatch reported Sunday. Hill pleaded guilty Thursday to a felony charge of enticing a woman to travel between states for prostitution. U.S. District Judge Rodney Sippel sentenced Hill to 51 months and ordered the sentence not start until after Hill completes a 14 1/2-year term handed out in federal court in Oklahoma for pimping four women there, including two minors.
