

Quake rattles southern Greece

by UPI

ATHENS, Greece -- An earthquake registering 6.7 struck southern Greece Thursday, the U.S. Geological Survey reported. There were no immediate reports of injury or damage, CNN said. The quake was centered about 140 miles southwest of Athens.

Copyright © 2008, by United Press International. All Rights Reserved.

Quake rattles southern Greece by UPI