

Body found at base of 100-foot waterfall likely suicide

by Cheryl McDermott

COOS BAY, Ore. -- Police report that the death of a 46-year old Coos Bay man was likely a suicide. His body was discovered Friday lying on boulders at the base of a 100-foot waterfall in Golden & Silver Falls State Natural Area after park employees reported an abandoned vehicle.

Dale Martin Thomas, 46, had been reported missing by family members earlier in the week, and missed a court appearance on a misdemeanor charge on February 12, Oregon State Police (OSP) said. Thomas's family told troopers he may have been suicidal.

Friday morning troopers received a report from State Parks personnel, who said an abandoned vehicle had been in the parking lot for a couple days. The park is about 24 miles northeast of Coos Bay, troopers said.

While investigating, OSP discovered Thomas's body at the base of the falls. An on-scene preliminary investigation by the Coos County Medical Examiner indicates the death was caused by the fall onto the boulders below the Golden Falls, troopers said.

Body found at base of 100-foot waterfall likely suicide by Cheryl McDermott