

Man could get death for killing witness

by UPI

AURORA, Colo. -- A Colorado man could face execution for killing a witness in another killing, Denver authorities say. A jury convicted Sir Mario Owens Wednesday, The Denver Post reported. The penalty phase of the trial begins Monday. The jury found that Owens shot and killed Javad Marshall-Fields and his fiancée, Vivian Wolfe in 2005. Marshall-Fields was scheduled to testify at the trial of a friend of Owens. Owens is already serving life with no parole for a July 4, 2004, killing in an Aurora, Colo., park.

Copyright © 2008, by United Press International. All Rights Reserved.

Man could get death for killing witness by UPI