

Public input sought at Community Development work plan hearing

by Bend_Weekly_News_Sources

A public hearing of Deschutes County Community Development Department's proposed 2007-2008 work plan will be held on Wednesday, February 28 at 10:00 a.m.

Citizens interested in understanding how the Community Development Department (CDD) plans to meet the needs of Deschutes County's growing population are encouraged to attend.

The hearing will be held at the Deschutes County Services Center located at 1300 N.W. Wall Street in Bend in the Sawyer/Barnes Room on the first floor of the building.

The proposed work plan will include major projects proposed for the Deschutes County Community Development Planning, Environmental Health and Building Safety Divisions. Project examples include the implementation of the South County Regional Problem Solving project, working with Deschutes County cities on urban expansion issues, an update of the County transportation plan and an online website permitting system.

Details of the proposed work plan can be found on the Deschutes County Community Development Department web site.

For more information about the hearing, please call Tom Anderson, CDD Director at 385-1704.
