LONDON - Three men have been charged with conspiracy in the July 7, 2005, bombings in London that claimed 52 lives on three trains and a bus.

Mohammed Shakil, 30, Shipon Ullah, 23, and Sadeer Saleem, 26, were the first charged in the attacks, the BBC said.

Authorities said Shakil, of Leeds, and Ullah were arrested in Manchester while boarding a flight for Pakistan. Saleem was attested at a residence in Leeds.

Scotland Yard said more arrests may follow. Four of the bombers died in the explosions.
