

Secrecy surrounding UFO theme park

ROSWELL, N.M. - An umbrella of secrecy is surrounding plans for a UFO theme park in the New Mexico town of Roswell.

City Planner Zach Montgomery revealed six locations were being considered for the park but refused to pinpoint the locales, The Roswell Daily Record reported Friday.

"That has to remain confidential," Montgomery said, adding the locations' values would quadruple overnight if revealed.

The only information available was that the possible locations were either within the city limits or can be easily annexed to the city.

Currently referred to as Alien Apex, the theme park is expected to be state-of-the-art.

Montgomery said a roller coaster dubbed the "Alien Abduction," could end up being the largest, tallest and fastest in the world.

"In essence, halfway through the ride you could click a button and change the outcome of the ride," Montgomery said.
