

Norwegian Nazi found living in Spain

by UPI

MADRID - A Norwegian man who was once a Nazi has been found in Spain, during a search for the world's second most-wanted Nazi.

Fredrik Jensen, 86, was found living in Marbella on the Costa del Sol, The Jerusalem Post reported Thursday.

Jensen was once the most highly decorated Norwegian in the Nazi army.

Spanish authorities found him during a search for Dr. Aribert Heim, the so-called Dr. Death of the Mauthausen concentration camp, who is the second-most wanted Nazi in the world, the Post reported.

Copyright © 2007, by United Press International. All Rights Reserved.

Norwegian Nazi found living in Spain by UPI