

Ovarian cancer can affect younger women

by Bob Kast

Ovarian cancer usually occurs in women over age 50, but it can also affect younger women. The American Cancer Society recommends annual pelvic exams for all women over age 40 to increase the chances of early detection.

Ovarian cancer can affect younger women by Bob Kast