

West Bank bomb found in dead sheep

by UPI

ELON MORAH, West Bank -- A Palestinian captured Monday by Israeli soldiers planned to attack a West Bank settlement by exploding a bomb in a dead sheep, it was reported. The 88-pound bomb was found inside the sheep on a road near Elon Morah, Ynetnews reported. Sunday night, an Israeli soldier was wounded near Nablus in a clash with Palestinian gunmen and eight wanted Palestinian terrorist suspects were arrested in separate captures in Nablus, Ramallah and Hebron, Ynetnews reported. Israeli Prime Minister Ehud Olmert and Palestinian President Mahmoud Abbas were to meet Monday in Jericho to discuss security in the West Bank.
