

NE Bend Car-Owners Victimized by Rock-throwing Vandals

by Cheryl McDermott

Vandals damaged at least six vehicles with large lava rocks in northeast Bend Monday night through Tuesday morning, the latest reported incidents in a string of similar criminal mischief that occurred over the past week, authorities said.

Officers of the Bend Police Department responded to six reported incidents beginning at 9 p.m. Monday, and expect additional victims to come forward in coming days.

According to Lt. Cory Darling, the rocks, most likely thrown from a moving vehicle, shattered numerous windows and caused body damage to the victims' autos.

Darling asks that anyone who may have information leading to the arrest of those responsible for the criminal mischief-reckless endangerment acts contact police at 322.2960.
